PURGE AND DESTROY IT.

Hidden data that puts you at risk.

When deleting a file from their computer, most people assume the information is gone. Not so. It simply disappears from the computer's directory. But the data is still there.

A skilled hacker can go into the hard drive and assemble enough data to put a business at serious risk by retrieving client names, emails, quotes, company marketing strategies, and other confidential information.

The data on your files could put your business, clients and employees at risk.

Most companies keep old, used hard drives sitting on a storage shelf or languishing in an obsolete PC. Action Shred's E-Destruction service can thoroughly erase and re-format hard drives to:

- Stop identity theft
- Prevent the stealing of data by disloyal or departing employees
- Ensure key information is kept out of the hands of competitors

Cleaning and re-using these hard drives can not only head off security risks but also make the most of your existing assets. Ask about our complete E-Destruction service: COMPUTERS, MONITORS, COPIERS, SERVERS, and more.

Enter Action Shred.

Action Shred's E-Destruction service does much more. Using a device created specifically for the task, Action Shred securely erases all data on the hard drive. Each file is completely destroyed to ensure there is absolutely no way to read it. Plus, if you prefer, Action Shred can reformat the drives to your specifications using a master disk.

Not just erased. Compliant.

Erasing data isn't just good for your corporate health. Sometimes, it's the law.

Action Shred can destroy your data to meet or exceed the data requirements of:

- NIST 800-88 purge and clear
- Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act (HIPAA)
- Patriot Act of 2002
- Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act (GLBA)
- Red Flag Rules
